The Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud is a luxury automobile produced by Rolls-Royce Limited from April 1955 to March 1966. It was the core model of the Rolls-Royce range during that period. The Silver Cloud replaced the Silver Dawn and was, in turn, replaced by the Silver Shadow. The J. P. Blatchley design was a major change from the pre-war models and the highly derivative Silver Dawn. As part of a range rationalisation the Bentley SI is very similar, apart from its radiator grille.

Many innovations were introduced with the Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud. Rolls-Royce chose the Silver Cloud to be their first model equipped with automatic transmission, power steering and power windows. Power originally came from their venerable straight six, but a new Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud II arrived in 1959 with a 6.2L V8. After studying many American designs, they took the best features of each V8 and built one of the smoothest running engines ever made.

Introduced in 1959, the Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud II set a new standard for luxury cars. For the first time ever, a Rolls-Royce was powered by a V-8 engine and the chassis and suspension were significantly updated from the original Silver Cloud. Although the new Silver Cloud offered a host of innovations, in the traditional sense, ever-conservative Rolls-Royce still implemented a ladder frame ...

The Silver Cloud was the last Rolls-Royce manufactured that employed body-on-frame construction; the days of cars being handcrafted by artisans in Crewe are now just a fond memory. However, that care and craftsmanship distinguish them from every other car ever created; the coach-built touches epitomize the style and grace of a classic Rolls-Royce and exemplify it as a rolling sculpture.
